

Alles was auf dem Leben
für mich leicht soll als Gepflicht betrachtet werden, denn die Pflicht ist das was den Menschen nicht zu dem unvollkommenen, aber Mensch und dem jungen Menschen
alles da wo es mit dem
Kraft am Leben zu sein soll ist das was zu sein mühsam als das was
für dich gut ist
Wissen die mich die
Kollagen im Leben
gleich in der Welt mit
Kollagen ist schal
Kant die notwendigsten
Kant die notwendigsten
mit dem Leben mühsam das was für dich gut ist
Freud

December 25, 1928

Dear Herr Doctor:

Warmest thanks to you and to our dear Mrs. Bruenitzer for your Christmas greetings.. But it is good that wishes cannot be realized so easily because your various wishes for me are not compatible with each other. If I were as healthy and strong as you want me to be I would not have to come to Tegel, in spite of the delightful existence which awaits us there; I would rather after strenuous work strive for the strenuous pleasures of a long journey to places which I don't yet know.

As it is, it will take a good while to get to work and travel and health; probably I will come again to Tegel -- don't know when -- and again as a patient.

I will consider everything that life has still to offer me as a gift and you know that one should not examine gifts too closely. But I may wish to you and all the young people who still pull the cart with full strength better times than these they are going through now.

Give my hearty greetings to our colleagues in the Society and your closest ones, Dr. Wulff and Dr. Schalit. I looked at the enlarged photo of Tegel with pleasurable memory.

Your faithful F R E U D

December 25, 1928

Dear Herr Doctor:

Warmest thanks to you and to our dear Mrs. Bruenitzer for your Christmas greetings. But it is good that wishes cannot be realized so easily because your various wishes for me are not compatible with each other. If I were as healthy and strong as you want me to be I would not have to come to Tegel, in spite of the delightful existence which awaits us there; I would rather after strenuous work strive for the strenuous pleasures of a long journey to places which I don't yet know.

As it is, it will take a good while to get to work and travel and health; probably I will come again to Tegel -- don't know when -- and again as a patient.

I will consider everything that life has still to offer me as a gift and you know that one should not examine gifts too closely. But I may wish to you and all the young people who still pull the cart with full strength better times than these they are going through now.

Give my hearty greetings to our colleagues in the Society and your closest ones, Dr. Wulff and Dr. Schalit. I looked at the enlarged photo of Tegel with pleasurable memory.

Your faithful F R E U D