Dear Mrs. Fenichel,

I am so glad you have found someone so satisfactory to do the translation ~~work~~. My husband is still in troubled waters, as the surgeon cannot quite mend all the tears in the eye, it seems. However, he is continuing to try; I hope it will end well.
Meanwhile I am afraid there has been some delay in enclosing your cheque, as I have only just obtained power of attorney to ~~do so~~ ^{so} sign in my husband's body. However, I hope this will not have inconvenienced you in any way.

Your recent post has arrived & is full of good things which are much appreciated as an ~~old~~ old friend.
Hospital food. It is really awfully good of you. But your meat not so during this as we are absolutely sufficiently fed in England (I speak not as a STRAHER, being the same name as the Minister of Food) but as a private housewife) & I am ashamed to take so much from a friend. I will write many thanks again for my husband's reply, - your sincerely Aly. Strahery
