Section 1 - (a) Active and accredited members shall pay dues and assessments as recommended by the Board of Directors and established by a majority vote of the membership.

(b) Life members and honorary members shall pay no dues.

(c) The Board of Directors may waive or defer the payment of dues by any active or accredited member.

Section 3 - A statement for the payment of dues shall be sent to the membership on or before May 1 of each year. A reminder notice shall be sent to all members who have not paid their dues by July 1. A delinquency notice shall be sent to all members who have not paid their dues by September 15. Any member who is in arrears on November 1 shall be notified by registered mail that the rules of the Society-Institute require his suspension from membership thirty (30) days after receipt of the notice unless payment is made in full within that period. If payment is not made within that period, the member will then be notified that he has been suspended and that his membership will terminate on the day of the next annual membership meeting unless his dues have been brought current by that time; if his delinquent dues are not paid by the time of the next annual membership meeting, the member shall be automatically expelled on that day, unless there has been prior action under Section 1(c) of this Article.

ARTICLE III

Admission to Membership

Section 1 - All of the voting members of the Los Angeles Psychoanalytic Society at the time of the enactment of these By-Laws by the Board of Trustees of the Los Angeles Institute for Psychoanalysis will automatically constitute the initial membership of the Society-Institute, with such individual classification as is specified in Article I of this Chapter.

Section 2 - Application for voting membership in the Society-Institute shall be made in such form as shall be established by the Membership Committee.

Section 3 - The Membership Committee shall process each application and shall act favorably or unfavorably upon each such application. Such processing shall include a study by the Membership Committee of the applicant's character, reputation, professional qualification and eligibility under the criteria provided for in these By-Laws, and shall include circularization of all of the members of the Society-Institute requesting relevant information concerning the applicant. There shall also be announced at a business meeting of the Society-Institute prior to final decision by the Membership Committee, the fact of the application for membership. In the event of favorable action by the Membership Committee, the applicant's name shall be submitted to the members for election to the Society-Institute. Such election shall be by mail ballot and shall require a three fourths (3/4ths) majority of all members voting. If the Membership Committee acts unfavorably, the application will be denied forthwith unless a member of the Membership Committee requests that the Board of Directors review the action of the Membership Committee. If the Board of Directors agrees with the action of the Membership Committee, the application will be denied, and the applicant will be so notified. If the Board disagrees with the Membership Committee, the applicant's name shall be submitted to the membership for election, as though the Membership Committee had acted favorably upon his application.

Section 4 - Application for honorary membership may be instituted by any member of the Society-Institute on behalf of such proposed honorary member. Following application, the procedure set forth in Section 3 of this Article shall apply to election for honorary membership.

ARTICLE IV

Discipline

The Membership Committee shall be charged with the responsibility of handling any charges and complaints which are brought to its attention from any source that any member has engaged in activity prejudicial to the best interest of the Society-Institute or of Psychoanalysis. If the Membership Committee determines that a charge or complaint warrants investigation, it shall designate one or two of its members to conduct such investigation as it directs and to report back to the Committee as a whole. Before such investigation commences, the member whose conduct is to be investigated shall be informed that such investigation was ordered to be made. The investigator or investigators shall consult with legal counsel for the Society-Institute with respect to the procedure to be followed in the investigation.

After the completion of the investigation, and the making of the report thereof to the Membership Committee, if the Membership Committee determines that there is a substantial possibility that disciplinary action should be taken, the Membership Committee as a whole shall conduct hearings. The hearings shall be conducted according to such rules of due process as shall be established by the legal advisers to the Society-Institute to insure a fair hearing. The member or members of the Membership Committee who performed the investigation shall not participate in the deliberations or vote at the hearings.

By majority vote of all of the participating members of the Membership Committee, findings shall be made as to whether the member involved has, or has not, engaged in such prejudicial activity. If the finding is in favor of the member, he shall be so notified in writing.

If the finding is against a member, the Membership Committee shall make the further finding as to whether the member shall:

- (a) be expelled from membership, or
- (b) be given a letter appropriate to the findings of the Membership Committee.

If the finding is in favor of expulsion, the member involved shall be so notified in writing, and shall be notified further that he has a right to demand a review by the Board of Directors. If he does not demand such review, the decision of the Membership Committee shall be final and he shall be expelled. If he does demand such review, the Board of Directors shall hold a review hearing according to such rules as shall be established by the legal advisers of the Society-Institute to insure a fair review. The action of the Board of Directors pursuant to such review shall be final. The Board shall have the right upon such review to order that the member either:

- (a) be exonerated, or
- (b) be sent an appropriate letter, or
- (c) be expelled.

If the Membership Committee makes a finding that the member shall be sent an appropriate letter, such letter shall be sent to him together with the notice that he has the right to demand a review by the Board of Directors. The review shall then follow the same procedure as set forth above with respect to review of a finding by the Membership Committee in favor of expulsion. The Board of Directors shall have the right to order the letter rescinded and expunged and formal exoneration to be given, or it may ratify the action of the Membership Committee in sending the letter.
